To whom it may concern:

As Director of Family Ministries at Cherry Hills Community Church, Highlands Ranch, CO., it has been my great pleasure to work closely with Joshua Kirk for the past eight years. As his supervisor, I can honestly say that Josh is one of the most gifted team members I have had the privilege of working with.

Joshua directed drama productions every Sunday morning at our church. He built up a team of fifty-plus volunteers who served with him during his time. In addition to leading Youth Theaters, Josh directed plays with casts of adult volunteers before audiences of over 5,000 people. He mastered the art of Improvisational Drama and performed in multiple venues throughout the community.

Clearly Josh is a highly motivated, competent leader and director. His fun loving, whimsical personality, combined with his knowledge and passion for the arts made him the kind of drama director that inspired others to do their very best, every time. He had an uncanny ability to bring out the hidden talents of young aspiring actors, which was witnessed by the successful drama productions he did in the community.

From a personal perspective, Josh was a friend as much as he was an employee. He treated people with respect, and always kept his cool even under the most stressful moments that come with directing. He was not afraid to try new things when it came to set design and special effects and approached his tasks with an optimistic can-do attitude. Our church community will not be the same without Josh. We are thankful that the work he began will continue with the vibrancy he modeled, as his successor whom he mentored, will stand on the shoulder of Josh's success.

I trust it is clear from this letter that I cannot recommend Josh Kirk more highly! Should you have questions, please do not hesitate to contact me at any time.

Sincerely,

Sheila Robinson
